The Fifth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Everyday Stewardship

I recently watched the film adaptation of "Godspell" with my teenage daughter. I had such fond memories of watching it when I was young, back in the day. I listened to the soundtrack so many times and learned to play many of the songs on my guitar. The exclamation from the show, "You are the light of the world!" has always been firmly planted in my mind.

After about ten minutes, my daughter looked at me with that look only a teenage girl can display. "What is this?" she asked with a certain level of condescension. Yes, the film did not hold up so well in the eyes of the twenty-first-century critic. So we laughed most of the way through it.

What attracted me to the film and the soundtrack in the first place wasn't Jesus in a Superman shirt or the idea of the apostles wondering around the urban jungle. I was attracted to the message. I was attracted to that assertion in the song, "You are the light of the world."

There will always be people who see the Gospel of Jesus Christ as dated, irrelevant, and even hokey. You and I are called to be the light of the world? Good stewards must never shy away from living lives that truly bear witness to the reality of the Gospel. The parables of Jesus have as much meaning for us today as ever. Look around. The world we live in needs a little light for sure.

Re: Becoming disciples who are transformed by grace for mission

Dear Friends,

Last year, in late January, I wrote a letter to the faithful of our diocese about the critical shortage of priests and the pastoral care of souls in our parishes. Many thanked me for being open, honest and direct with them in that letter. This year, the Diocesan Pastoral Council (lay members from each of our four deaneries) have encouraged me to write another letter to all of you. This letter is about the vision and mission of the Catholic Church in our diocese and your participation in it.

In general, participation in the life of the Church among baptized Catholics has been declining in recent years. Fewer people are attending Sunday Mass on a regular basis. Fewer are serving on boards and councils and volunteering for other types of service as well. Fewer parents are giving their children faith formation, whether in religious education programs, our Catholic schools or at home. Many would suggest that people are just busy with too many activities. However, I believe it goes deeper than that. I believe it is a question of faith.

For decades, people have done the basics when it comes to living their lives as Catholics. They have gone to Mass, supported the parish financially, sent their children to religious education programs, helped with funeral lunches or parish grounds clean-up projects and supported parish festivals and other activities. While all that is good, a deeper commitment to living our faith must be ignited.

I believe participation in the life of the Church is most authentic when it comes as a response of faith which we first received in Baptism. Faith in God who is Father, Son and Holy Spirit calls for a response of interior gratitude for creating us and saving us, which then sends us outward in service to others. In the gospel stories we see how many times people who encountered the love of Jesus and his gifts of healing and mercy led them to follow him, as his disciples. His teaching and his way of life re-oriented their way of living. This happens in most human relationships: an encounter leads to a response.

My point is that without being transformed by God's grace for the mission that our baptism requires, people are less committed to serve in our parishes. A deeper encounter with Christ is needed. When we become disciples who are so affected by God's love for us, our response is that of discipleship: actively being on mission with Jesus. Then we become actively engaged in His mission, but it necessarily must come as a response to his saving love for us.

On the enclosed page in this mailing, I have outlined a Pastoral Plan for our diocese. The overall theme comes from Jesus's Sermon on the Mount when he said, "Seek first the Kingdom of God and his righteousness." (Matthew 6:33) The plan for our diocese has this vision: that through a spiritual transformation, all God's children will become active participants in the life of the Church. Our mission becomes that of forming disciples who are capable of evangelizing the culture. I have identified six principal initiatives going forward, each of which will require ongoing prayer and implementation.

We must be willing to allow the Holy Spirit to re-organize our lives for discipleship. This will require that we rethink how we use our time and our resources, both human and material, to staff and fund the mission. This will require that we take an honest look at how we exist as individuals and as a Church, on the parish level and what kind of support would be needed from the diocese. These are challenging times, but they are also exciting times.

With the growing secularization of our culture, Christianity is facing increasing persecution. Religion, once honored and respected, is less and less tolerated. In fact, having religious values is being viewed by many as 'the problem' in our world today. A proper Christian anthropology – understanding the human person based on the laws of nature and informed by faith – is widely being rejected and seen as judgmental and hateful. Human sexuality, sexual identity and sexual expression is confused and understood simply in terms of personal preference, denying scientific facts. Education seems less about gaining knowledge and developing the human mind. Rather, many centers of education (at all levels) are adopting a secular mission of transforming human minds to take on a specific type of world view, superseding the rights of parents who may object to this agenda. Furthermore, religious liberty is being denied to those who choose not to support these trends in our world today.

Thus, becoming disciples who are capable of evangelizing the culture is a formidable challenge. Yet, this has been the mission of Christians in every age since the day of Pentecost. It is the Holy Spirit who will not fail in leading and guiding us as we seek to live our faith in the world today. So much seems to be changing and converging just in the last 10 years. Thus, it requires that how we live our faith and how we form others to live this faith must also change. Doing "what we have always done" is bearing less fruit.

At our recent meeting of US bishops in Baltimore, several bishops were talking about pastoral planning and restructuring and making changes going forward. These changes are happening everywhere because parishes large and small are challenged to find people who are willing to be actively engaged in the mission of the Church.

That is why I am convinced that unless we "start over" by drawing people into a personal encounter with Jesus, one that so affects their lives that they embrace the faith with new energy, purpose and intentionality, we will only see a further decline in those who participate in the life of the Church.

I know this is a sobering outlook on things. At the same time, hope springs eternal in me because I believe in the power of God's grace in each of us if we are open to and ask for it! I believe the Lord wants us to be truly alive in our faith, to use each of us to help build up his kingdom, to transform the culture with the gospel, and enable each of us to become inspiring examples of faith in our world today.

Please join me in praying for this spiritual transformation not only in our diocese but more specifically in yourself, personally. Trust in the power of God at work in you through faith. Ask the Lord how he wants you to be engaged in the mission of the Church. Please join me in becoming disciples on mission with Jesus, disciples with a new passion for the salvation of all and for his praise and glory!

In Christ, our Hope!

Most Reverend Joseph G. Hanefeldt
Bishop of Grand Island

Celebrating Sunday for
Fifth Sunday of Ordinary Time
Gospel: Matthew 5:13-16

On the Way to Mass:

What does salt do to food? What could Jesus be asking of us when he calls us to be the salt of the earth?

On the Way Home From Mass:

What happens to a light placed under a bushel basket? What if light is placed on a lampstand? If your light is the love of Jesus that he has given us, what might he want us to do with it?

Living the Word:

Reread today's Gospel together with this visual: Light a candle and place it under a basket. With the lights in the room off, ask your family to share what they observe about the light. Then remove the candle from under the basket and place it on a counter or footrest or table and share your observations again. What new insights does anyone have about the Gospel when they see what happens to the lit candle?

Parent Talk:

My New Year's resolutions were not going well. I hadn't gotten to the gym, regularly attended daily Mass, cleaned the house daily, and still be patient, loving, and kind! A few weeks after New Year's Day, I realized the rest of my family was struggling, too.

"How about," suggested my husband, "we each pick just one resolution on which to focus."

"Something that's challenging, but doable," Kara chimed in.

"One is more doable than five," agreed my daughter, Tessa.

We each declared our resolutions: helping around the house, no TV during the week, no procrastinating, and going to Mass more often. I wrote our names next to our resolutions and taped the list to the refrigerator. Every week, we check in to see how our resolutions are going and offer encouragement when we struggle to keep them.

With God's grace, we are keeping our resolutions, one day at a time.

Celebrating the Lunar New Year

1st grade students enjoyed celebrating the Lunar New Year during the week of January 23-27. A number of fun learning activities took place including a visit from 3rd grader, Audrey He, who taught the kids about the animals associated with the new year. This year is the year of the rabbit so the students made rabbit affirmation lanterns. As well they made special hats, enjoyed receiving a special red envelope filled with gold coins, tried their hand at using chop sticks while dining on some traditional foods like fried rice and oranges. What a fun and educational experience for these students.

We Love Our School

Sunday January 20-Friday, February 3rd marked the annual celebration of Catholic Schools Week. St. Agnes students spent the week celebrating the many wonderful people who make our school an amazing place to learn and grow in faith and knowledge. They led the 10:00 Mass on Sunday, Jan. 29th. On Monday, they dressed in bright colors to show we let our light shine. A change war started between classes to raise funds to support a Seminarian scholarship. Tuesday students came to school in pj's and enjoyed playing board games together. Wednesday included Mass and a visit from the Bishop and diocesan superintendent. Thursday marked the return of our beloved family picnic and Friday we celebrated another fun Vocation Friday. We are grateful for our families, parish, volunteers, board members, benefactors, teachers, staff and friends who make St. Agnes School an amazing place!

What's Happening at St. Agnes School.....

First Grade Class By Sharon Bird

January has been an exciting month. The students seemed glad to be back to share and learn.

We discussed igloos, watched videos, looked at books, and each child made an igloo with marshmallows. The students were so glad to have Mrs. Brown come in to share in the learning excitement.

Using hot chocolate, marshmallows, and different water temperatures the students were scientists predicting and then observing. The young scientists were observing to find out which temperature would dissolve the marshmallows first and the changes in the marshmallows.

January was filled with learning and discussion on snowflakes. The students learned about Snowflake Bentley. We made snowflakes (our classroom floor was covered with bits of paper) but we had fun following directions which resulted in unique snowflakes.

The students continue to progress in reading. We are working on classroom plays from our reading series. We will perform these for Mrs. Brown and Mr. Polk.

We celebrated Chinese New Year. We were honored to have Audrey He speak to us about Chinese New Year and to have Mrs. Brown share information with us and a picture of her grandson. Many activities were planned. One of the activities was using chopsticks. Each child then took his/her chopsticks home.

Thank you parents, for reading and studying spelling words with your child. You are AMAZING! Your efforts will assist your child in becoming successful.

Fourth Grade Class By Kristi Becker

The third quarter has started out busy in 4th grade. The students are focusing on working on harder assignments and projects. We recently did a small research paper on penguins. We will be starting a bigger research paper on the national park of their choice. The students have enjoyed just learning about the parks through videos and books, before they settle on their favorite. This class has turned into such creative writers. They really apply everything we learn in writing to make them better writers!

We started a new project in religion class. We began by looking up the miracles that Jesus performed. Students read 5 different miracles from the Bible. We then discussed, compared, and illustrated them. Some even created poems out of the word, "miracle". Students have also been busy creating a collaborative Eucharist poster and enjoying Catholic Schools week!

A recent activity the students enjoyed in science was making "soil layers" out of chocolate chips, pudding, Oreos, and dyed coconut. They topped their soil sample off with a gummy worm! This unit also teaches rocks and minerals which the students enjoy. It is a very hands-on lesson, with the students getting to observe and feel all the rocks and minerals.

In our morning reading, vocabulary, and language block, students have recently learned about independent and dependent clauses, commas, new vocabulary words, and story elements. This morning block is always jammed packed with lessons and books! One of my favorite things is having the students rush into me after reading with their book club, to tell me all about the event that just happened in their book. I love their excitement for reading!

I cannot thank this class of 15 for all their hard work in the classroom. We like to describe them as small but mighty!
