

Customer Service

Creating long-term, trusting relationships with our customers is key to WeatherTite's successful business model. We still believe that above everything else, the customer should always be and remain satisfied.

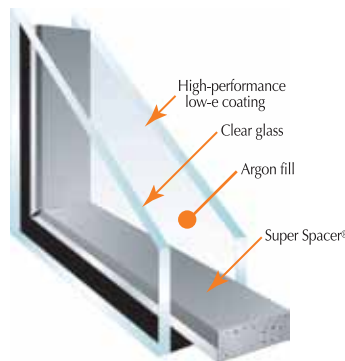

That was what we vowed back in 1991 when the company was founded and we continue to live by that motto today. The result is that thousands have joined our extended family as "satisfied customers".

Our promise for almost 20 years has been "for the life of your house." It is a promise that we stand by every day. It is the reason our customers come back again and again.

WeatherTite:
