

XpresSmile's manufacturers are FDA Registered. The law now requires that all companies who produce products for human consumption, whether medicinal, nutritional, beverage or confectionary, must register their facility and operations with the FDA. Further, all information pertaining to a company's address and nature of business must be current with FDA at all times. Being FDA Registered assures our accounts, customers and the public that the manufacturer is a fully disclosed company with the government. This is essential where interstate and international commerce of our products and the raw materials they are made from is concerned. Issues such as public health, product safety and being in compliance with importation laws, regulations and monitoring is more effectively dealt with through the 'FDA Registered' policy. Being FDA Registered does not imply that the products have been approved or certified by the FDA. Where nutritional and/or dietary/herbal supplements are concerned the FDA does not approve such products, however, FDA does have full regulatory authority where the manufacture of or claims made for these types of products are concerned. Using FDA registered manufacturers means that XpresSmile places public safety and well-being as a top priority.
