

Kisses® Mother/Infant Matching Component

Key features

Automatic match indication

The Hugs® system with Kisses is the only product that automatically provides an audible indication to alert you if you do not have the right mother matched with the right baby. There are no buttons to push and no wall-mounted lamps required.

Simple to use

The Kisses component is even easier to use than the traditional matching band system. Just bring mother and baby together, and you will be alerted right away if you do not have the correct match.

Works anywhere in the area covered by the Hugs system

Only the Hugs system allows matching of mother and infant to be done anywhere within the covered area. Matching is not inconveniently restricted to a few locations.

Patient friendly

Like the Hugs tag, the Kisses tag is patient friendly. It weighs only 1 oz. and is attractively styled like a classic wristwatch. The Kisses tag is fully waterproof, and can be attached with a standard hospital band.

No set pairs of mother and infant tags

The Hugs tag and Kisses tag do not come in pre-matched sets, and any Hugs tag can be used with any Kisses tag. This makes managing the tags much easier. The tags can be cleaned and stored separately, and used again whenever needed.

Supports multiple births

Twins, triplets and other multiple births are supported. No extra steps or equipment are required, other than a Hugs tag for each infant.

How it works

The Kisses component is a part of the Hugs infant protection system that provides automatic mother/infant matching notification. Each mother is given a small tag (the Kisses tag) that is bonded with her infant's Hugs tag at birth. From that point forward, the tags remain bonded throughout their stay in the hospital. Nurses are immediately alerted of a mismatch with an audible indicator, and a match is confirmed if the infant and mother have been away from each other for a period of time.
