Linda McLean, author of My Gratitude Journal™ and the upcoming book, Next Level Living®, makes it her business to help you catapult your career, business or personal life to the next level.

An international speaker, accomplished business and life coach with over 25 years of experience, and president of McLean International LLC., Linda empowers you to access your inner strengths and desires. Then combines these insights with proven systems to create your personal roadmap to success and develop your leadership potential. Her keynotes and presentations are based on strong principles of integrity in leadership, consistent communication and proven business principles.

International Speaker and Trainer

Linda provides executive, business and life coaching services to corporations, organizations and individuals. As a coach, she works with executives as well as individuals at all levels who are seeking to increase productivity, bottom line revenue results and personal growth.

As a speaker, she motivates and inspires. As keynote for business conferences, expert panel member for internationally renowned Bob Proctor, and speaker for corporations across North America, Linda delivers a unique program that builds on group dynamics while inspiring individual clarity.

Corporate and Executive Coach

Linda's clients are recognized as successful business owners and top producers. Clients say that Linda is able to tap into their inner wisdom and creative energies with pinpoint intuition. Through the coaching partnership, executives discover increased levels of clarity, energy, and commitment, which in turn promote optimal decision-making, performance, and inspirational leadership.
