

Ivy White

"Rise and shine!" Mr White said, as the daylight shone through the window. He was excited, as his wife was becoming a pilot today. "Tonight is your first real flight!" He said.

Outside, it was icy but the sun was shining. They got a ride off Mr Wright, and followed the signs to the airport. "Soon you will be flying up in the sky, Ivy" Mr White said. "I know, don't remind me!" replied Ivy.

They arrived at runway number nine, but could not find the right plane - they were all alike.

Finally, Ivy found it and got inside. The engines started to whine, and Ivy started to smile. She was a bit frightened, but she realised her lifelong dream had come true. At the end of the mile long runway, there was a tear in her eye.