Murphy_Scavenger Hunt

Tamma Murphy
Reflection

The project was literally an “eye-opening” opportunity that required me to pause and focus on my surroundings. As I drove around looking for subjects to fulfill the topic criteria, I found myself engaged in a creative challenge.

I discovered that most good photographers must have their camera strapped in the seat next to them. On one occasion, I drove past this goat standing on his hind legs trying to eat the leaves from a tree. Of course, I didn’t have my camera. By the time I went home and got it, the goats had moved out into the pasture. Good thing one friendly little goat felt sorry for me and came over to give me “Something Amusing.”
From Underneath
Overlooked
STATE TRUST LAND

NO TRESPASSING

NO MOTOR VEHICLES
An Architectural Detail
Morning
Botanical
Dented
Discarded Furniture
Window Light
Alone
On the Ground
Something Amusing
Something Small
Unmatched Pair
Age
Portrait of a Friend
Scar
Your Initials
Twilight
Tension
Fork in the Road
Recognizable Shadow
While Lying Down
What You Carry
Faceless Portrait