

Sherry Lambson-Eisele, Esquire

---

Sherry Lambson-Eisele is the 2021 President of the Seminole County Bar Association. She is a Partner with the law firm of Boyd & Jenerette, P.A. with more than 25 years of litigation experience handling construction, business, real property, and bankruptcy litigation matters. Ms. Eisele has represented Fortune 500 companies and small business owners in matters ranging from multi-million dollar claims to single-family homeowner matters and everything in between. She regularly handles complex construction and business litigation, as well as real estate matters including construction defects, liens, bonds, contracts, title claims, commercial evictions, fraud, quiet title, boundary disputes and other real estate issues. She is also experienced in prosecuting and defending claims for extra work, delays, indemnity disputes, engineering and design errors and omissions, and OSHA investigations and resolution. Her extensive experience includes litigation in state, federal, and appellate courts and includes arbitration and construction project administration and claims.

In the area of business contracts and disputes, she represents clients in business and employment torts, shareholder disputes, employment contracts and restrictive covenants, franchise agreements, licensing agreements, stock purchase agreements, commercial foreclosures, work-out agreements, other banking and finance related matters, drafting and enforcement of operating agreements, stockholder agreements, employment agreements and other corporate and business agreements and documents.